Elijah Ordinary Man Extraordinary Service

In January, I started an online course in Carmelite Spirituality. The Carmelites are a religious order within the Catholic Church, with an emphasis on contemplation and prayer, balanced with engagement with the world. This course is something that I have been interested in for most of my Christian life, and Carmelite saints, such as St Thérèse of Lisieux or St Teresa of Avila, have always influenced me through their teaching which has a strong emphasis on God's love and living a simple Christian life.

This course has been interesting and challenging, something that I have wanted to do for a few years but have not had the time to do it. It has taken me into new or different areas of the Church's teaching and theology.

One of the people that I studied is the Prophet Elijah. His story is found in 1 Kings 17ff. He lived on Mount Carmel in Israel, and the Carmelites take their name from Carmel, and with the sense that they are continuing the tradition of prophecy and contemplation that Elijah started. There is a feast day for the Prophet Elijah, July 20th.

Elijah had his ministry during the reign of King Ahab and Queen Jezebel, who are the evillest of the rulers of Israel. They killed the Lord's prophets and persecuted Elijah, threatening to kill him as well, and Elijah engaged with them. Elijah is an example to us that you cannot separate religion and politics, but that his faith meant being actively engaged in the political systems of his day, and this was costly for him in many ways.

Elijah was always very human, and the Bible describes one point, when he has been threatened by Queen Jezebel, where he runs away into the desert and sits under a solitary broom tree and just wants to die. He feels like a failure, he feels that the odds are stacked up too much against him, he can't win and he is at his lowest. Elijah is not a mighty powerful prophet who always succeeds in everything that he does, but he is human just like you or me, and sometimes it feels just too much.

God comes to Elijah in his depression, and walks with him in the wilderness. Elijah is fed by ravens and angels in the wilderness and he has a very powerful experience of God, who he finds not in the earthquake, wind or fire, but after the sound of sheer silence. This leads him in his vocation, and God directs him to anoint a new king for Israel, and a successor for himself. I wonder if our experience is like Elijah's, in that we sometimes keep on looking for God, or for our experience of God in the wrong places. We must question the nature of our relationship with God, is it more in the doing and busyness of Church life, when God wants to meet us in the stillness and silence when the business has settled.

so much through sitting in God's presence in silence, and listening to him. This is the thought in the hymn 'Dear Lord and Father of Mankind':

*Breathe through the heats of our desire Thy coolness and Thy balm;
Let sense be dumb,
let flesh retire;
Speak through the earthquake,
wind, and fire,
O still, small voice of calm.*

It was Elijah who stood with Moses next to Jesus in the Transfiguration, one of the most mysterious events of Jesus' life. The disciples were certainly confused and Peter suggests making tents for all three of them. However, amid this confusion God speaks,

"This is my Son, the Beloved; with him I am well pleased; listen to him"

The Old Testament, the prophets and the saints are all directing us towards Jesus who was born into our messy world. The prophet Elijah spoke to the situation that he was born into, he had a very powerful relationship with God, which also recognised his fragility as a human being. James said that Elijah was a human like us, I find that so reassuring when I read about him. James uses him as an example of someone who is human like us and who can pray in wonderful way. Elijah prayed for a drought to stop, and for a widow's son to be raised to life again.

I suppose that I have learnt from the Prophet Elijah that God calls us all in different ways, and he calls us because he loves us, and loves this world.
